RALLY ROUND THE FLAG

England is the strongest naval power in the game, and has an excellent defensive position. However, England lacks easy access to neutral supply centers for early growth.

Establish a good relationship with either France or Germany in the early game. Your relationship with Russia is also important, especially if you decide to focus on Scandinavia.

Normally England captures Norway in 1901. Some English players will attack France or Germany right away, while others prefer to wait and see who will be a better ally for the early game.

Pay particular attention to the English Channel in your opening negotiations, as this space is vital to English defense (and in some cases, growth).
